

Counseling

Beverly Richardson, PhD

Beverly's call to be a counselor came while she was on the mission field in need of counseling herself, but none was available. Because of this, she has received special training on how to minister to missionaries' needs while on the mission field, and when they return.

She has also been trained in Elijah House and Theophostic prayer ministry, both of which she uses. Her greatest passion is to see the captives set free from whatever it is that holds them in bondage. She has a heart for seeing those that are wounded in all areas, including sexual abuse and eating disorders, released from darkness so they can truly be who God created them to be.

Beverly has her Master's degree in Music Education and has received her PhD in Christian Counseling from Logos Christian College. She is a member of American Association of Christian Counselors, Georgia Christian Counselors Association, and International Association of Theophostic Prayer.
